Waco SRE

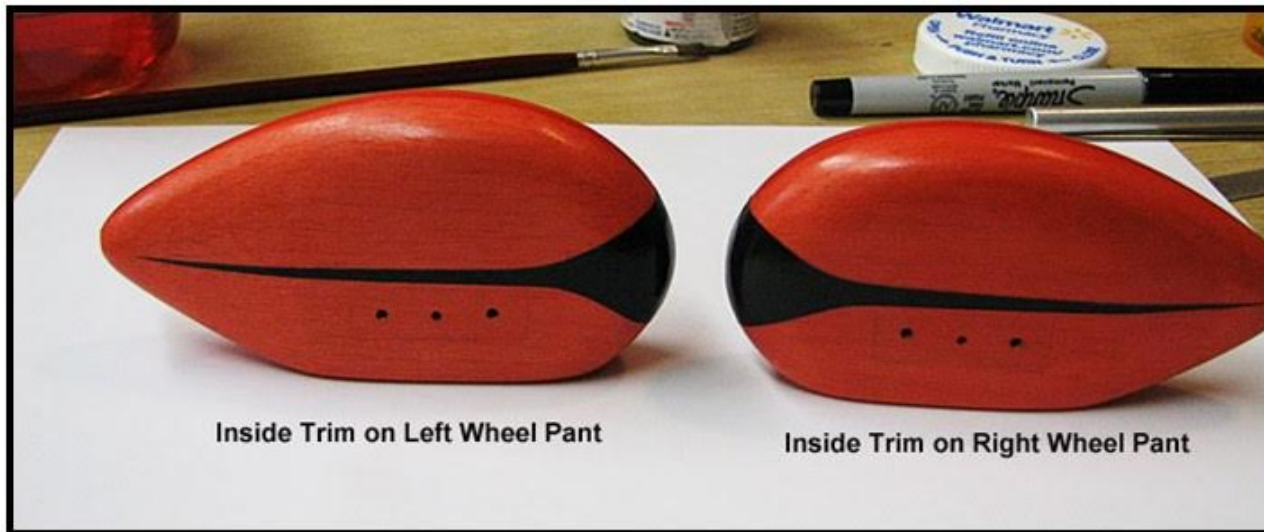

September 10, 2014

I spent most of this morning masking off the right wheel pant trim pattern on both sides and the black trim to match that of the left wheel pant done yesterday. The small complex egg shape Waco's wheel pant does not really lend itself to using a paper pattern for repeatability. There basically "eye balled" the pattern's shape on the right wheel pant with free hand masking. This took several attempts to get the right pattern similar to the left. Do they match exactly? We exactly, but I believe the four pattern shapes are close enough that the casual eye will not pick slight difference shown below.....Tandy
