Subject: 22 Sailplane Fuselage - Stab Mounting

The holiday activities have been taking up most of my time the last few days. I did finish planking the stab center section. Today I had time to remove the landing gear from the fuselage so I could jig up the fuselage and do a trial fit of the stab on the fuselage stab platform structure as shown below. The fit is pretty good although the stab is slightly tilted right tip down. After Christmas I will have to sand a little on the left side of the fuselage stab platform structure to level up the stab. Since tomorrow is Christmas Eve, I discontinued work on the Sailplane altogether this evening and will start up again sometime after Christmas. Merry Christmas to all of you guys!.....Tandy
